AS ALIENISTS DECLARE
HICKMAN IS NOT SANEKILLER PLANNING FAKE FIT IN COURT,
LETTER REVEALS

"Crack at" Prosecutor Keyes.

CASE IS STARTED
BY PROSECUTION

First Expert for State Asserts Without Hesitation That Defendant Is "Sane
and Tough."

Hall of Justice, Los Angeles, Feb. ruary 3.—(AP)—William Edward Hickman made his last gesture today
in presenting his insanity defense for the confessed killing of Marian Parker.

Hardly had Jerome Walsh, youthful counsel for the confessed kidnaper, slayer and mutilator of the school girl, finished the words "high put an end to the defense in the sanity trial, than the state set in motion the agencies it had chosen to attempt to establish that Hickman was sane at the time the crime was committed, and send him to the gallows.

Alienists Final Witnesses.
The closing phase of Hickman's defense was centered in the testimony of alienists, one of whom withstood
a withering cross-fire from the prosecution but was unshaken in the opinion that the defendant is insane.

The "dementia praecox" theory of Dr. R. O. Shelton, defense alienist, came in for a heavy battering from Prosecutor Asa Keyes. A delusion of the prisoner that "divine guidance" prompted his crimes was the text of Dr. Shelton's testimony from which the alienist adduced abnormality amounting to insanity.

The first moves by District Attorney Asa Keyes, when the last alienist summoned by the defense had left the stand, was more or less legal routine.
He placed on the stand Mark Sellers, handwriting expert, and adduced testimony from him to show that ransom letters written by Perry M.
Parker demanding $1,500 for the return of his 12-year-old daughter were penned by Hickman.

Handwriting Is Identified.
Sellers' testimony was to the effect that the handwriting on the ransom letters was the same as that in the confessions written by the defendant.

Walsh had already called witnesses
whose testimony spread over the court records all the details of the crime and the state began what promised to be a long drawn out effort to break down the expert medical testimony of defense alienists, two of whom declared it their belief that Hickman was insane.

A swirl of medical terms eddied
about the court throughout the day as one alienist followed another to the witness box and told why he thought Hickman sane or insane.

Dr. A. L. Skoog, of Kansas City, defense alienist, said that he had examined Hickman six times between January 25 and February 1 and "believed him to be insane."

Lists Youth's Characteristics.
The witness listed what he considered the outstanding characteristics of the confessed killer's mental condition, delusions of grandeur, assertion of divine guidance and ideas of superiority.

Prosecutor Keyes introduced a photostatic copy of a letter written by Hickman in jail, promising to "crack at" the prosecutor.

Gun Victim's Body Claimed
By 'Widow'

Mystery Woman Appears in New Mexico To Bury Scion
of Wealthy Family.

Santa Fe, N. M., February 3.—(AP)—
A young woman identifying herself as the widow of W. Barton French, 35, scion of a wealthy New York family, today claimed his body so that he would be buried "on the ranch he loved."

The man was found shot to death in the home of a friend here last Wednesday and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. French, who recently had been living on his ranch near Bland, N. M., was known to have been married and divorced twice but the revelation by the woman who said they were married in Albuquerque on January 4, last, came as a surprise to his friends.

Married in Albuquerque.
The woman related she met French in Asheville, N. C., and that the marriage ceremony was performed in Albuquerque by a Rev. Father Good, Catholic priest.

Officials of the church could not recall a Father Good being in New Mexico. She declined to give further information about herself, save that
"with him gone" she was without relatives.

Suicide as the verdict of the coroner's jury which investigated the death of French was attacked by the woman who declared he was "too jolly, too happy to have shot himself."

Chief of Police Oliver Holmes started an investigation after a conference with the district attorney.

Authorities Hold Body.
Meanwhile the body of French was held pending action from French's guardian, C. J. Slocum, Beacon, N. Y.
Authorities had previously received a telegram from Mrs. Barton French requesting the body of her son be buried at Richmond, Va. The woman claiming to be the widow opposed burial of the body in the east.

Guy Shannon, friend of French, at whose home the latter was found dead in a bathtub with a bullet wound
in the head, said the once wealthy New Yorker had told him he came west to "get away from the temptations of the city."

French had been residing at his ranch near Bland, N. M., some time after a court order in New York directed that all of his income except $125 a month be applied to liquidation of his debts.

NEGRO DANCER IS BARRED FROM VIENNA THEATER

London, February 3.—(AP)—A Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that the city council has forbidden the Ronacher theater to allow Josephine Baker, American negro dancer, to give performances. The reason for the council's action is that the theater manager has not been granted the necessary state concession.

Recently Vienna police were obliged to guard the dancer, who had been threatened by university students. The students declared they would prevent negro performers from playing in Vienna.

Admits 13 Murders.
Huntsville, Texas, February 3.— (AP)—George J. Hassell, laborer, today admitted the murders of 13 persons, including that of a 21-year-old stepson for which he was under sentence to be electrocuted a week from tonight.

'Y' Given $450,000.
New York, February 3.—(AP)—The national board of the Y. W. C. A.

ciary of a trust fund of $450,000 by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Adams, of

at a luncheon to the Adamses today.

LOCKOUT STRIKE FEARED IN BRITISH
TEXTILE PLANTS

Manchester, England, February 3.— (AP)—A lockout or strike in the cotton trade is feared here. A resumed conference between representatives of the employers and employees sat today for nearly four hours to discuss the employers' demand for longer hours and reduced wages. The conference finally broke down, neither side being willing to yield on the question of wages and hours and the parties are at a complete deadlock.

The next step is with the employers who are expected to take a ballot of the trade to decide whether they will force the wages and hours issued by a lockout.

GENERAL MOTORS
TO ERECT BUILDING FOR SUBSIDIARIES

Delco, Frigidaire, Oakland and Others Will Occupy New Structure at Pine and Spring Streets.

Plans for erection of an office building for the General Motors corporation on the northwest corner of Spring and Pine streets, the Massell Realty company to house a number of district headquarters of large General Motors
subsidiary companies, was disclosed Friday when it was learned that the branch offices concerned are preparing to occupy the proposed building
by the middle of this year.

The General Motors Acceptance corporation, the Delco Light and Frigidaire branches of the finance corporation, the Oakland Motor Car company and perhaps several others plan to occupy the new structure jointly, each company having its own suite of offices. According to the terms of the transaction it is understood that the Massell Realty company, which owns the site on which the office building is to be erected, is to build the structure especially for the General Motors subsidiaries, leasing it for a term of 10 years to the General Motors Acceptance corporation, which will occupy a portion of the building and sublease the remaining portions to other subsidiaries of General Motors.

The structure will cover one-half of the Spring street block between Pine street and Baltimore block. The other half of this block is now occupied by the new office building of the MacMillan company, large publishers. The site of the General Motors office building will measure 50 feet on Spring, extending back 170 feet along Pine street to an alley in the rear. Determination of the number of floors to be built into the structure is to be made within the next day or two, depending upon whether any additional district headquarters are to be provided for in the office building. Cost of the structure will depend upon these developments.

T. Suddarth is head of the General Motors Acceptance corporation, district office. Mr. Suddarth was out-rigger of the city Friday and could not be reached.

EXPLOSION ROCKS
COAL MINE TOWN

Blast Occurs in Ohio
Shaft Owners Intended
To Open on Cooperative Basis.

Athens, Ohio, February 3.—(AP)—
The Lubrig mine of the New York
Coal company, six miles west of here,
which the owners had proposed reopening on a cooperative basis, was rocked by an explosion tonight.

The mine was unoccupied at the time, and although houses in the vicinity were shaken by the blast no one was believed to be injured. Mine Superintendent Charles Fitzer expressed the opinion that the explosion was the work of union sympathizers.
A rumor had been circulated that the Lubrig mine would reopen on a non-union basis, and this possibly was the reason for the explosion.

Intended to Split Profits.
Page Morris, general superintendent of the New York Coal company, recently proposed that all mines in the Athens district resume operations on a cooperative basis by which the miners would receive 60 per cent of the profits.

Police, led by Chief Herbert Parker, started for the scene of the explosion, but were stopped a mile from the mine by a large group of men patrolling the road. Chief Parker said there was a continual automobile
patrol around the mine property,
through which he was unable to pass.
Sheriff William Williams and his deputies were out of the county when the blast occurred.

INDIA AFLAME
AS ENGLAND'S
BOARD LANDS

Widespread Riots Break
Out When Commission
Arrives To Study Problems of Country.

ARMORED CARS
USED BY POLICE

Indians Incensed Because They Have Not Been Given Representation on Board.

Bombay, India, February 3.— (United News).—Rioting and a violent thunderstorm today greeted the arrival of the royal Indian commission, headed by Sir John Simon. The commission's task is one of the most difficult ever loaded upon the shoulders of a group of Englishmen—study of the British empire's most perplexing problem, India.

The storm prevented the great anti-English demonstration which had been planned in Bombay, but reports from Madras and Calcutta said that serious riots had taken place there. Two persons were killed and 15 injured in Madras in rioting, while 50 persons were injured in Calcutta
in a clash between 10,000 students on one side and police and troops on the other, following a demonstration by strikers.

Mob Enters High Court.
In Madras the mob entered the high court to object to intimidating workers. They assaulted a European sergeant. The police fired into the ranks of the mob and dispersed it.

Later the crowd attacked European motorists but the police, aided by troops, restored order. About 100 students were arrested in Calcutta before the rioters were subdued by the troops who charged into the crowd with armored cars.

The Calcutta riot was by far the most serious disturbance arising out of the arrival of the commission.

A crowd attacked a shopkeeper who opened his store in Madras despite the martial law of the day of mourning decreed by the national home-ing congress for all India. The police charged the crowd.

Shops, Factories Closed.
In Bombay some shops and factories were closed, but street crowds were small because of inclement weather.

The harbor demonstration was affected by a choppy sea, permitting
only a few boats to meet the commission. Their occupants carried megaphones to shout at the steamer.

The commission had been prepared for a demonstration ashore and had arranged to leave immediately for Delhi. But there was quiet and the members went on a sight-seeing tour.

In Calcutta, the police found themselves unable to cope with the mob of students. They called for military reinforcements. Armored cars and infantry were rushed to the scene.

Trolley Cars Wrecked.
Rioting students, before they were subdued, had smashed street cars and buses, injuring some of the drivers and conductors.

Among the injured was Sir Charles Tegart, commissioner of police who was hit with a brick. Dr. Stapleton, principal of the Presidency college, Calcutta, was maltreated. Police rescued him.

The royal Indian commission, which left London January 19 to study India's fitness for self-government, had a tremendous task before it. Indian leaders of all parties and sects grasp the fact that no Indians are on the commission and they have begun a serious boycott.

No amount of argument by the leaders of the British government officials in India, or on the part of the India office in London, has carried any weight.

Seek Impartial Inquiry.
The government has claimed that because all members of the commission are English they will be better able to judge impartially. The Indians claim, however, that the commission lacks the very essence of interest in the people.

The commission expects to spend only six weeks in the country on a preliminary survey, visiting large centers, holding hearings to hear actual native sentiment toward changes in the present system of government.

Postal Officers
ARREST WRITER
OF RANSOM NOTE

New York, February 3.—(AP)—The
alleged writer of a ransom letter, demanding $25,000 for the return of Miss Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith college student, was arrested by postal inspectors and police after a two-mile chase tonight when he picked up a decoy package hidden in a vacant lot in upper Manhattan.

The man, who described himself as Devian Collins, 27, a Costa Rican, advised that he was the author of the ransom letter and denied that he knew anything of Miss Smith's disappearance.

U. S. TO PROBE
BOMB ATTACKS
IN TRADE WAR

Federal Government To Investigate Use of Violence in Chicago's Commercial Disputes.

HELP REQUESTED
BY BUSINESS MEN

Bombs Thrown Into Stores of Candy Jobbers
Who Refused To Join Association.

Chicago, February 3.—(AP)—The federal government has decided to find out something about the use of violence as a means of persuading Chicago merchants and manufacturers to join trade organizations.

George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, returned from Washington today with authority from the attorney general to investigate individual methods so far as they affect firms and individuals in interstate commerce. The determination of the federal authorities to pry into this Chicago "racket" followed the recent indictment of fifty members of the Chicago Association of Candy Jobbers on charges of conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

Bombs Changed Their Minds.
The candy jobbers' investigation showed that firms which had refused to affiliate with the association had changed their minds after bombs had been tossed into their places of business.

Scores of "racketeers"—liquor runners, bootleggers, gamblers and "muscle men"—have taken up the "business organization racket," the district attorney has been informed.

Johnson said a special attorney general would be sent to aid him and that the full power of the department of justice here would be at his disposal.

'BIG BILL' HIT BY AUTO
IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, La., February 3.— (United News).—Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson, of Chicago, was slightly injured today while en route to the race track here to witness the $50,000
New Orleans handicap.

The automobile carrying him struck a hole in the road, throwing Thompson against the top of the car. His upper lip was cut and his nose painfully bruised. He proceeded to the track, however, and later was loudly cheered when he addressed the crowd briefly.

'Great Hunt'

500 Mountaineers To Leave
"Flocks" During Drive Against Wild Animals.

St. Joe, Ark., February 3.—(AP)—
The "Shepherds of the Hills" will leave their flocks to the "women folks" and faithful herd dogs tomorrow to engage in the greatest hunt
ever staged in the southwest.

The cries of about 500 mountaineers will ring through the picturesque Ozarks of Carroll, Newton and Boone counties in northwest Arkansas, as the aroused farmers hunt lynx, wolves, wildcats and panthers
in an effort to protect their flocks
from further depredation.

All domestic animals, including dogs that cannot be used on the trail will be corralled and men and boys from all sections of the Ozarks will gather at Compton early tomorrow morning and begin the one-day hunt.

A government investigator has figured that each wolf in the Ozarks costs the shepherds $1,000 annually,
and each fox and wildcat $100.

SPANISH WAR
NAVAL HERO DIES;
WON U. S. MEDAL

New York, February 3.—(AP)—Dr.
John Tracy Edson, 78, naval hero
in the Spanish-American war, died yesterday at Sailors Snug Harbor, Staten Island.

He was a graduate of the Naval academy at Annapolis and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York. During the Spanish-American war he served on the United States gunboat Gloucester, and was awarded a government medal for meritorious conduct in battle for his efforts in rescuing the Spanish admiral, Cervera, and officers of the Spanish flagship
in the battle of Santiago.

Dr. Edson practiced medicine in New York and Denver, Colo., for 25 years. Burial will be in the national cemetery at Arlington.

WILLIS ACCEPTS
GAGE FOR HOOVER
THROWN IN OHIO

Senator Quick To Take Up Challenge for State Presidential Battle When
Made by Burton.

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—
The candidacy of Secretary Hoover for the republican presidential nomination in the Ohio preferential primary was thrust forward today by Representative Burton, of Ohio, and the challenge for a contest in that state was immediately accepted by Senator Willis, of Ohio, who announced his candidacy some time ago.

Coming on the heels of a series of conferences between the friends of Secretary Hoover and Senator Willis seeking an agreement to avoid a fight in Ohio, the declaration of Burton tonight was regarded as an answer to the parleys. Although Secretary Hoover maintained his silence about his candidacy tonight the declaration of Mr. Burton will force an early showdown. The Ohio man asked that Mr.
Hoover be a candidate. To enter the Ohio primary a candidate must signify his willingness in writing before the filing lists close on February 24.

Made Survey of State.
"I have made a careful survey of republican preferences in the state of Ohio," Burton said in a formal statement, "and as a result conclude that the dominant sentiment is for Hoover.
If his friends wish that he should seek the support of the republican voters, and Mr. Hoover is willing to respond to that wish, it is my opinion that his name should be entered in the primary contest."

The declaration of Burton, who delivered the keynote address at the last republican convention, was heard quickly over the capital, where the conferences of the Hoover-Willis forces have been in progress and the answer of Senator Willis was issued within short time and a blunt way.

"This contest will be no kidglove or powder puff affair," declared the Ohio senator in his statement. "In perfect faith and confidence, the issue will be submitted to the republican voters and they will be given the opportunity to say whether they believe in the policy of giving an Ohio candidate a fair chance or whether they will take the view that Ohio's political prestige shall be put into the hands of those uninterested in the welfare of Ohio republicans."

Heated Campaign Likely.
The promise of another heated campaign on the Ohio battleground where Warren G. Harding and James Cox, former democratic governor of that state, fought it out in 1920, was immediately given by the declaration announced earlier in the day from Columbus that the republican state central committee had endorsed the candidacy of Senator Willis by a vote of 19 to 1.

Coincidental with Burton's declaration for Mr. Hoover in Ohio it developed today that friends of the cabinet, four of them, had taken a suite of rooms at the Willard hotel here out of which activities in the campaign being made in his behalf.

George Lockwood, a former secretary of the republican national committee, has been stationed at the hotel quarters, and John T. Adams, former chairman of the committee, also has been on hand. There is said to be no direct association between Secretary Hoover and the activities of the group though persons who have "been part in conferences there have been associated with his official work in the past.

G. O. P. BATTLE LINES
FORM IN OHIO

Columbus, Ohio, February 3.—(AP)— Battle lines between friends of Senator Frank B. Willis, who was given the republican state committee's endorsement for president today, and supporters of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, were being formulated tonight in anticipation of Hoover entering the Ohio primary in April.

The senator's friends pointed to the committee's endorsement by a 19
to 1 vote as answer to a statement made in Washington this afternoon by Congressman Theodore Burton of Cleveland, that sentiment in Ohio is for Hoover.

Roosevelt Hits
"SIDE-STEPPING"
ON FARM RELIEF

Des Moines, Iowa, February 3.— (AP)—The time has arrived to call a halt on side-stepping of the farm problem, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt declared in an address delivered tonight at a banquet given by the Republican Service league here. People of the United States, regardless of their political preferences, should demand a conservative farm program be put forward, he asserted.

Colonel Roosevelt upbraided Americans for being too careless, too lazy, or too indifferent to meet great problem questions.

Church Battle
Brings Appeal
For Court Aid

Pastor Jones Is Center of Controversy in Providence
Baptist Church.

The pastor-supporting faction of the Providence Baptist church, colored, again has sought recourse in the law.

Friends of the preacher first asked criminal penalties for his enemies.
Failing in this they now have brought an injunction.

It was signed Friday by Judge
Edgar E. Pomeroy and calls upon John W. Williams, Will Barlow and W. E. Barge to show the Fulton superior court why they should not be enjoined for all time from locking out the organization.

That is a brief of the legal status quo, but the story goes back to last summer.

One August night the pastor's ell-wishers had met for the Wednesday prayer service. This date was also the regularly ordained monthly meeting night for the congregation.

The insurgent group wished to adjourn the prayer service and convene the official meeting, at which a legal pastor ejection edict could be passed.

But the preacher's friends kept singing. They sang far into the night, and then the pastor began to pray.
It was a long prayer.

Here Will Barlow is reputed to have shouted: "This is a regular church meeting, and we're going to put you out, Pastor Jones!"

Prayer lines were tensely drawn a new moment later when the police arrived in answer to a summons from the timid member.

The grand jury was persuaded to take it up; they drew true bills charging insurgent ring leaders with "disturbing public worship," a charge dismissed recently by a jury in Judge Jesse Wood's criminal court at Atlanta.

The petition filed Friday in Fulton superior court bears the names of 70 members "in good standing and conspicuous in the church service,"
the congregation.

It charges the insurgent deacons with having taken the old locks from the churchhouse doors and re-laid them with others, the keys to which were held only by themselves. This occurred on February 1, the paper says, and has prohibited the congregation from attending church service customarily held four times weekly.

For Good Foods

America's Families Turn to A&P

Legions of women know from personal experience that shopping from one store to another, searching for better quality or greater value is but a waste of time. Women know that A&P has everything other good stores have and many things that ordinary stores would like to have... that A&P is the standard by which all food service is measured. It is positively both dollar saving and time saving to select A&P for good foods.

Former Banker Avers Thefts

Blames Friends Who Failed To Pay Loans

'Tortured' Him Before Arrest

New York, February 3.—(AP)—Blaming friends who he said had failed to return money he lent them, James Heiatt, of Milford, Ky., admitted in court today that he had stolen some $50,000 from the Milford National bank, where he was cashier. He asked for a speedy trial.

He was held without bail and said he would waive extradition. Police said that reports from Milford placed the thefts at $75,000 but Heiatt said he had not taken more than $50,000, more than half of which he took when he decided that he could not cover up his speculations and decided to run away.

Heiatt disappeared from Milford August 31 and since then has been constantly moving.

"I've read of criminals who have stolen money and have been 'tortured' by their consciences and I know that is true," he said. "I couldn't sleep. I couldn't eat. I thought the police were always watching me, even in the movies where I would go for darkness. I traded in the stock market to recoup my losses, and I would have been successful only I couldn't concentrate."

"All this trouble began through friends who borrowed money and then were unable to pay it back. I had to make good their losses and steal from Peter to pay Paul. No cabarets, no women and no liquor got any of my money. It all went in the market. I'm glad it's over and they can't take me back too quick. I have peace of mind now."

NEW COAST LINER ENDS MAIDEN TRIP AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, February 3.—(AP)—The giant liner Dixie of the Southern Pacific (Morgan Line), largest of combination freight and passenger ships operating in coastwise traffic between New York and New Orleans, docked at the St. Louis street dock here today, completing her maiden voyage begun last Saturday. A dis of whistles and bells from craft in the harbor, and automobile horns that lined the docks for several blocks greeted the liner as she warped to the dock. Captain C. P. Maxson was in command.

The Dixie, a 12,000-ton oil burner, carried 240 passengers in addition to a cargo of freight. The liner affords luxurious accommodations, the most appealing from a passenger's viewpoint being beds instead of bunks. The numerous salons are equipped with telephones and ornamental fireplaces, while the glass enclosed cabin deck is of sufficient dimensions for promenade.

Numerous prominent personages from New York in addition to the Countess Meir de Maizel, of Madrid, were included among the passengers.

300 CONTRACTORS GATHER MONDAY FOR 4-DAY MEET

Washington, February 3.—(Special)—Probability of the abandonment of the Veterans' bureau hospital now maintained in Atlanta and erection in its place of a veterans' hospital of 300 beds to cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 was seen following the appearance before the house veterans' committee here today of General Frank T. Hines, head of the Veterans' bureau.

The site of the present hospital would be sold, under the plan evolved, and the funds obtained therefrom applied to the new building. The hospital now has 85 beds. General Hines said that his estimate of a hospital of 150 beds had been revised upward recently and that a 200-bed institution would be advisable.

Representative Steele, of the fifth district; Tarter, of the seventh; Cox, of the second, and Rutherford, of the fourth district, all of Georgia, already had pointed out to the board that a hospital of 400 beds should be erected here for the veterans. Belief that the committee would compromise on the difference between Hines' recommendation and that of the Georgia congressmen was expressed.

VIRGINIA ASSEMBLY RESENTS DECISION ON COAL CHARGES

Richmond, Va., February 3.—(AP)—The general assembly of Virginia today adopted a house resolution condemning the interstate commerce commission in its recent decision in the lake cargo coal rate case and asking Virginia representatives in congress to take "suitable action" to prevent recurrence of such a decree.

The resolution was introduced by Delegate Ashton Dore, house floor leader, and was based on constitutional arguments. It set forth that the constitution of the United States prohibits tariff on trade between states and that the interstate commerce commission decision in this case is in fact a restrictive tariff on Virginia trade and has considerably damaged the coal industry in the state.

AL SMITH DECLINES KENTUCKY INVITATION

Frankfort, Ky., February 3.—(AP)—Governor Smith, of New York, has declined the invitation to address the Kentucky senate because the New York legislature also is in session and he does not want to leave that state. Announcement of the decision was made here today.

WILBUR ARGUES S-4 AIDS DEFENSE PLEA

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur cited the loss of the S-4 as an argument for preparedness today before the Women's patriotic conference on national defense.

"That loss stirred the hearts of the American people," he said, "and they have a right to know whether the navy department or any other department is to blame for placing those young men in that position. If they were to blame the nation will demand that some sort of punishment be meted out."

See Public Reaction.

"But what will the American people say to the present staff of the navy and the general board if we so change our policy that when we come our boys are forced into a worse position than the boys on the S-4?"

"History will not exculpate us if for any reason, knowing the requirements of modern battle, we say to our children and our children's children that we were unwilling to give them a chance."

In regard to the present naval construction, Wilbur said: "If we had asked for more we might well be criticized for appearing to seek great naval power, but until we replace what we sacrificed on the altar of peace we should not be criticized."

JONES ADVOCATES LARGE MERCHANT MARINE

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—A possible move by "certain signatory nations" to withdraw from the Washington naval arms pact in 1936 was referred to today by Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, in advocating before the house naval committee the building up of a large merchant fleet as an adjunct to national defense.

The admiral, a member of the American delegation to the unsuccessful federal government funds of approximately a quarter of a billion dollars were described today to the committee by Major General Jadin.

The deepening of the channel of the Savannah river was specially studied by the committee. Representative Vinson, democrat, Georgia, urged that the existing program for the improvement of the river's navigable facilities be modified to permit a 5 to 6 foot channel for the 201-mile stretch between the two cities.

Vinson said that the commerce of the two cities would be greatly benefited by the project. He declared that the project also would form an important link in the interstate waterway. General Jadin said he had approved the deepening of the channel.

GEORGIAN EXPLAINS PURPOSE OF MEASURE

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—With the projected expenditure of $1,365,000 for the improvement of navigation of the Savannah river approved by the house rivers and harbor committee, Representative Vinson, democrat, Georgia, issued a statement today describing the commercial benefits he expects to accrue.

"It is estimated," he said, "that over 225,000 tons of first-class freight would be available per annum as the potential commerce of the river between Augusta and Savannah. The water transportation will be at least 20 per cent lower than rail transportation, at a total saving of over $300,000 in freight rates."

NEW COAST LINER ENDS MAIDEN TRIP AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, February 3.—(AP)—The giant liner Dixie of the Southern Pacific (Morgan Line), largest of combination freight and passenger ships operating in coastwise traffic between New York and New Orleans, docked at the St. Louis street dock here today, completing her maiden voyage begun last Saturday. A dis of whistles and bells from craft in the harbor, and automobile horns that lined the docks for several blocks greeted the liner as she warped to the dock. Captain C. P. Maxson was in command.

The Dixie, a 12,000-ton oil burner, carried 240 passengers in addition to a cargo of freight. The liner affords luxurious accommodations, the most appealing from a passenger's viewpoint being beds instead of bunks. The numerous salons are equipped with telephones and ornamental fireplaces, while the glass enclosed cabin deck is of sufficient dimensions for promenade.

Numerous prominent personages from New York in addition to the Countess Meir de Maizel, of Madrid, were included among the passengers.

300 CONTRACTORS GATHER MONDAY FOR 4-DAY MEET

Washington, February 3.—(Special)—Probability of the abandonment of the Veterans' bureau hospital now maintained in Atlanta and erection in its place of a veterans' hospital of 300 beds to cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 was seen following the appearance before the house veterans' committee here today of General Frank T. Hines, head of the Veterans' bureau.

The site of the present hospital would be sold, under the plan evolved, and the funds obtained therefrom applied to the new building. The hospital now has 85 beds. General Hines said that his estimate of a hospital of 150 beds had been revised upward recently and that a 200-bed institution would be advisable.

New Paris Styles Persist

Otherwise, Spring Confections Are Conservative

In 'Trousers for Women'

Paris, February 3.—(AP)—The spring style shows here indicate that the idea of trousers for women still lurks in the minds of some famous Parisian dressmakers.

One Paris leading dressmaker, who recently told the American women they had had knees and coarse skins, showed trousers in many forms at the house which bears his name. Another house suggests ruffled and lace-trimmed pantaloons at the solution of women's clothes problems and displays "panties" under skirts, which are split at the sides.

The recurrence of the trouser theme, however, does not excite Paris in the least. The majority of the spring collections of styles are conservative and have few changes to offer from clothes of the winter.

Skirts are slightly longer, but the difference is not material. Waistlines have not mounted upward as some prophesied but appear to have settled definitely at a point atop the hip bone.

Most of the shows display many printed chiffons for evening wear. Suits with short jackets are much in evidence. Navy blue has routed black at some houses.

One dressmaker who is also a milliner shows many straw bonnet shapes with black tulle veils cut like those of bridesmaids, reaching to the shoulders.

SAVANNAH RIVER PROJECT VOTED

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—The house rivers and harbor committee today approved a survey by army engineers calling for a $1,365,000 project to improve the navigation of the Savannah river between Augusta and Savannah.

CENTRAL WIDENING FUND IS APPROVED

Formal approval of the appropriation by city council of $50,000 for the purpose of widening the Central avenue viaduct approach in connection with the viaduct-building program, was voted Friday afternoon by members of the committee of the city bond commission and the bridge committee of council, in joint session.

A motion to formally request the county to transfer the deed to a piece of county-owned property at Central avenue and Hunter street to be used in the viaduct scheme, also was adopted. No other matters of importance were taken up.

The street committee of council met and acted on more than 50 petitions, by far the majority of which were individual requests for refunds on sewerage, sidewalks and other paving items representing small sums expended by citizens in various parts of the city for minor improvements.

W. A. Hansell, chief of construction for the city of Atlanta, Friday afternoon was granted authority to request bids on approximately $150,000 worth of sidewalks, gutters and curbs.

The committee granted Mr. Hansell authority to place the matter before the next meeting of city council, which will have the final disposition of the matter. Repair and construction work embraced by the request of the chief of construction will affect various parts of the city, it was explained by Charles L. Chosewood, chairman of the street committee, and is merely in line with the regular program of the committee for 1928.

Reconditioning of paving and sidewalks on West Peachtree street, from the southern junction of Peachtree to North avenue and from North avenue to Tenth street, was urged in petitions placed before the committee by property owners on that street. At many points it was brought out in the petition, pedestrians in that zone are compelled to walk in the street because of the lack of adequate sidewalks, and the pavement of the thoroughfare in general was sharply criticized. The petitions were referred to the finance committee.

Another petition which was referred to the finance committee by the street committee was that calling for expenditure of $3,955 by the city for the purchase of private structures located on the vacant lot at the corner of West Peachtree and Kimball streets. The petition provided for the purchase of the building, so that the sidewalk bordering the edge of the property could be placed in shape for adequate pedestrian passage.

This petition was passed, to the finance committee last year; it was pointed out by members of the committee, but no action was taken by that body because of a lack of funds.

STATE POOL ROOM LAW TO BE TESTED BY U. S. TRIBUNAL

Georgia's much-discussed "pool room law," upheld by the state supreme court and lower tribunals, will be brought up for a final test in Washington on February 23, when the United States supreme court will consider a case involving the disputed statute, according to E. R. Gress, assistant state attorney general.

BRAVELY FIGHTING DEATH, DANIEL BOY IS RESTING EASILY

Thomas Daniel, 13, who is gallantly fighting death from gas gangrene at Grady hospital, Friday night was resting well after having eaten a "heart" supper, his nurse said. His condition, however, continues very critical. Two blood transfusions have been given the lad in the fight to save his life. Hemorrhages and the loss of blood from an arm amputation weakened him after the gangrene had followed infection of a broken arm. Friday 23 applicants offered their blood. Two were found suitable and J. M. Johnson, 530 Cameron street, was told that he would be called if physicians decided another transfusion would be necessary. Mrs. H. M. Otis, an aunt, who lives at 942 Boulevard, S. E., with the Daniel family, furnished the blood for the first two transfusions.

Notorious Negro Fugitive Caught In Philadelphia

Another chapter in the checkered jail career of Rufus (Mule) Hicks, Georgia negro, a story which had its beginning 13 years ago in the stealing of a mule, was written here Friday when the state prison commission prepared extradition papers to bring Hicks from Philadelphia back to Georgia.

He escaped last August from the Clarke county chaingang, where he was serving a life sentence for murder, the commission said.

Recaptured in Philadelphia recently, the negro was detained on a burglary charge, it was explained, but police of the Pennsylvania city have notified the Georgia prison body that they are now ready to relinquish the prisoner to Georgia authorities. Records of the commission showed that Hicks has had a varied career at the hands of the law. First, he was convicted of stealing a mule in Harris county, being committed to the Muscogee county chaingang in April, 1915, to serve his sentence. After several previous escapes, the negro got away again on June 10, 1925, and in the melee attending his departure a guard was killed.

CENTRAL CHURCH PASTOR UPHELD BY CONGREGATION

Following a meeting of the congregation of the Central Congregational church Thursday night, the following statement was issued by W. Saul Smith, chairman of the publicity committee of the church: "A meeting of the congregation of Central Congregational church, Carnegie Way and Ellis street, was held Thursday evening to consider the scattered criticisms of its pastor, Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, on his stand for religious freedom and tolerance in the light of modern scientific knowledge, and its application to social and civic problems."

"Overwhelming testimony was given at the meeting on the fine character and results of the work of the pastor and optimistic reports were made on the church's progress and future. It was brought out that several overtures had been made during the past few months by churches in northern cities to secure the services of Dr. Dodge, but in view of the endorsement given Thursday evening he has decided to remain at Central church to carry on the work so well started."

"Dr. Dodge is well-known not only in Atlanta but throughout the whole country for his modern, up-to-the-minute views on religious matters, and the congregation is highly pleased that it has been able to retain him as pastor of the church."

STATE OFFICES OPEN FOR SALE OF AUTO TAGS

With extra clerks on duty the mail order department and the window department of the state motor vehicle bureau in the office of Secretary of State S. G. McLenon are ready to give prompt service to automobile owners who desire to purchase 1928 license tags, it was announced Friday.

Officials of these departments declared that automobile owners should purchase their tags now while they can get prompt service instead of waiting until the last day when the congestion will be great. Nothing is gained by postponing these purchases and much better service can be obtained now than later in the month.

BOOKS TO REMAIN OPEN LATE TODAY TO HELP VOTERS

All windows in the office of the Fulton county tax collector will remain open until 5 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced Friday by W. S. Richardson, tax collector. This additional time was allowed for the convenience of those who may wish to register for the forthcoming democratic primary, books for which will close at 5 o'clock Monday night. Only new voters or those who have changed their addresses since the last election need register, inasmuch as a permanent list is kept at the tax collector's office.

SHELDON RESUMES ORGAN RECITALS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The regular Sunday afternoon organ recitals at the city auditorium, which were omitted during the last two weeks on account of the automobile show, will be resumed Sunday afternoon, it was announced Friday. Dr. Charles Sheldon, city organist, will conduct the recital and has promised an interesting program. The music will begin at 3:30 p. m., and will last one hour.

"Butcher Your Own Meat," Talmadge Tells Hog-Raisers

"Butcher your meat and keep it at home—the present price is too cheap," says Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, in urging Georgia hog-raisers to kill their animals themselves instead of shipping them. The large number of hogs now being rushed to market is causing a substantial decline in price, it was pointed out, and this tendency seems likely to continue as long as the procession continues at the present rate, Mr. Talmadge said.

Figures compiled by the market bureau of the agricultural department show that hogs this week have been bringing from 6.82 to 6.90 cents per pound, as compared with an average return of 7 cents for the month of January.

M'Lendon Weaker, Attendants State

Secretary of State Colonel S. G. McLenon was reported slightly weaker at his apartment in the Henry Grady hotel Friday night. "His condition is unchanged, but he is gradually growing weaker," attendants said. Colonel McLenon has been in a critical condition for several days. He was stricken with influenza in mid-December and complications followed.

BURGLARIES KEEP POLICE ON JUMP

Self-service burglars helped themselves to gasoline early Friday morning at the filling station of J. P. Upchurch, 1200 Boulevard, S. E., after robbing his grocery store in the rear of the gas station of cigarettes, groceries, a telephone pay station money box and a gum vending machine, according to a report by Call Officers O. D. Hardy and E. C. Foster.

Several other burglaries were reported Friday. The store of A. Levy, at 202 Edgewood avenue, was robbed of shoes and clothing, while the Daffodil Sandwich shop, next door at 204 Edgewood avenue, was broken into but, so far as could be learned, nothing was taken.

A valuable shawl, a diamond ring,

a photograph, a sapphire and pearl pin and several dresses were stolen from Mrs. Bessie Love, of 316 Jackson street, N. E. Mrs. F. M. Goodroe, of 71 Bass street, S. W., reported the theft of a pocket-book containing $3, a gold vanity case and fountain pen, a silver pocket knife and a number of bank papers.

H. E. Collier, of 620 Willard avenue, S. W., reported the theft of his watch and a gold ring, and J. E. Wiggins, of 583 Lawton street, reported the loss of an overcoat with an $8 check from his parked automobile. R. L. Lewis, of 1339 Grant street, lost a pair of gold cuff links. John Howard, of 84 Luckie street, reported that a dozen fountain pens had been stolen from his shop.

Police were warned by Chief James L. Beavers to watch out for gangs of boys who are stealing empty milk bottles from residences and selling the bottles.

Fights Death Penalties.

Richmond, Va., February 3.—United News.—A bill to abolish capital punishment entirely from this state was introduced in the house legislature today by Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain.

City Schools To Celebrate Georgia Day on Feb. 13

Georgia day will be observed on Monday, February 13, in all Atlanta public schools with programs now being arranged, Miss Elizabeth Jackson, secretary to Willis A. Sutton, city superintendent of schools, said Friday.

The Georgia day commemoration this year will mark the 195th anniversary of the day on which General James Edward Oglethorpe planted the banner of King George II of England at the foot of Yamocraw bluff at Savannah and thus founded the colony of Georgia.

The Georgia legislature, in 1909, enacted a measure calling for the annual observance of February 12 as Georgia day in public schools, and provided when February 12 falls on Sunday, the observance is to be held the following Monday.

"The Georgia day programs will only be a part of the programs being held every day in Atlanta schools featuring one Georgia virtue or another," Miss Jackson said.

TAPS ARE SOUNDED FOR FIRE STATIONS ON WASHINGTON ST.

Taps for one of Atlanta's oldest fire stations, erected 23 years ago, has been sounded in the abandonment of Station No. 2, at Washington and Hunter streets, it was revealed Friday at fire headquarters. The lease for the station having expired without renewal, the fire company has been moved to Station No. 5, several blocks away, and the assistant chief has been moved to Station No. 9.

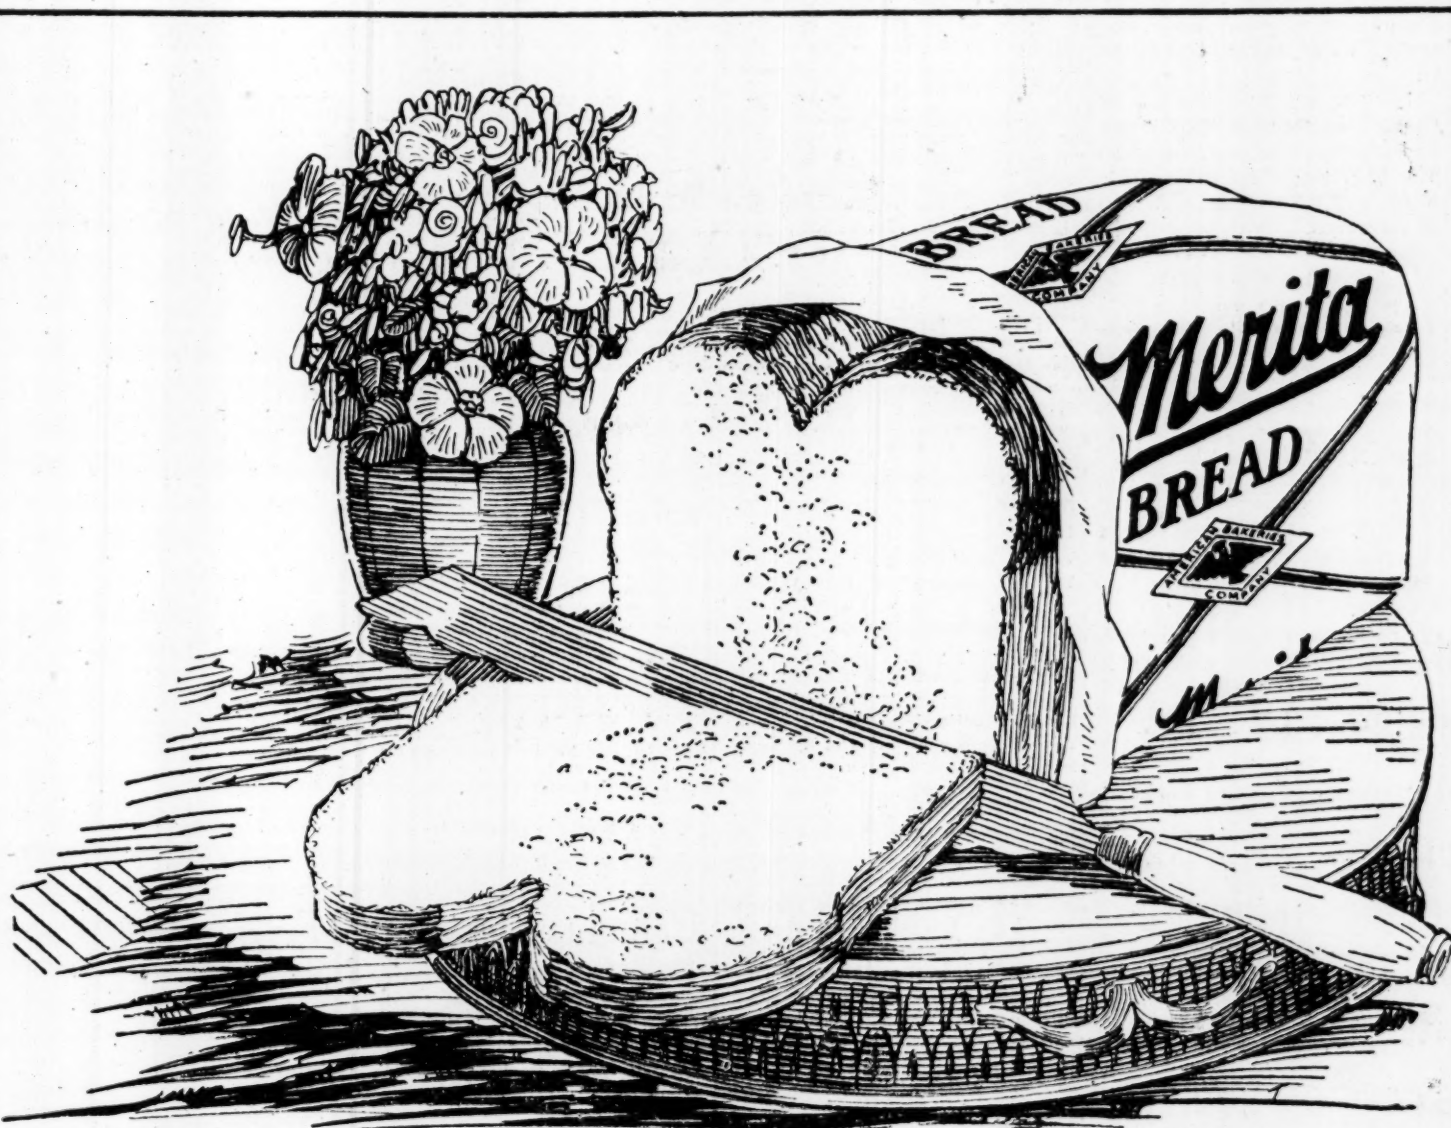

The abandoned station is located on the property of the Central Presbyterian church, having been purchased from the city a year ago. The moving of No. 2 company was in the interests of economy and service, insurance companies having agreed that the change would not affect fire rates in the section, it was stated.

FIVE ORIENTALS TO BE DEPORTED VIA NEW ORLEANS

Four Chinese and a Japanese, former inmates of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, left Atlanta Friday afternoon in the custody of Immigration Inspector J. H. McVay and Police Captain Grover C. Fain for New Orleans, La., where they will be deported to their native lands. The Chinese are Han Yue Kun, Tong Kay, Chen Yung Lee and Peng Mou. The Japanese is Thomas S. Harada.

In addition to escorting the five men to New Orleans for deportation, Mr. McVay and Captain Fain also carried Ike Vincent, 15, and Jenor Chandel, 14, back to their parents in New Orleans. The two boys ran away from home, and after a wild ride to Atlanta on top of the Crescent Limited, were picked up by police here. The Vincent boy is the son of the chief clerk of the New Orleans immigration office.

STRIKE CONDITIONS PROBED BY LEWIS

Pittsburgh, February 3.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, and a congressman—F. H. La Guardia of New York—came to the Pittsburgh district today to observe conditions growing out of the mine strike in effect in the Pittsburgh district coal fields for ten months.

At the same time the school at Broughton, a mining town, was closed by school officials, who charged that non-union miners entered the town yesterday, fired at the school house and terrorized miners.

Urges Senate Inquiry
President Lewis, discussing the senatorial investigation of the strike, proposed by Senator Johnson of California, said such an inquiry "means more than is appreciated by the public."

La Guardia, who spent the day touring the mining towns, declared tonight in a telegram to Senator Johnson that the "brutality of private police of the mine owners and utter disregard of law is shocking and amazing." He urged that Senator Johnson press his resolution to a vote, declaring that "an investigation should commence at once."

Captain J. C. Mank of Troop D, stationed at the Butler state police barracks, was assigned tonight by Governor Fisher to make an investigation of conditions in the strike area.

DR. ONDERDONK URGES SUPPORT FOR MISSIONS

An appeal for the people of Georgia to energetically support foreign missionary work, particularly in Mexico, Cuba, Brazil and neighboring countries, was voiced Friday night by Dr. Frank S. Onderdonk, widely-known missionary, at an enthusiastic banquet of Methodist ministers and laymen at the Atlanta Athletic club.

More than 500 attended and the gathering was described by Bishop W. R. Beauchamp, of this district, who also is president of the board of missions, as the most enthusiastic mission rally that Georgians have held in many years.

The banquet followed a business meeting at the Wesley Memorial church Friday afternoon, at which time plans were discussed for raising $1,000,000 in Georgia in 1928 to further the work of the Methodist church in its missionary activities.

Besides Dr. Onderdonk, Fred T. Barnett, noted Methodist lay leader of Nashville, Tenn., and Mr. J. N. McGehegan, president of the W. C. C. Missionary society of the North Georgia conference, made short talks. Dr. W. A. Shelton, of Emory university, presided in the absence of Dr. Harvey W. Cox, who is confined to the hospital.

Dr. Onderdonk made a plea for more money with which to carry on the missionary work that the church has started. He told of his seventeen years' work in Mexico, and declared that the spreading of the gospel was being left to the rest of the world. He told of some of his experiences when he first went to Mexico, giving an interesting account of how the church had spread during that time.

PRIEST, 45 OTHERS SLAIN BY MEXICANS

Mexico City, February 3.—(AP)—Dispatches from Guadalajara today said that General Anselmo Garcia, under chief of the presidential guards, announced that a Catholic priest, Crescencio Esparza, and 45 rebels, were killed during a clash with federal soldiers near Cotija, state of Jalisco, Wednesday.

Six hundred rebels commanded by Esparza and Luis Guizar Morfin fought with the presidential guards in a battle lasting more than three hours. The rebels withdrew, abandoning 28 dead and carrying off many wounded.

The priest and 17 others tried to escape by crossing a river and were drowned.

The federal forces captured 102 horses, several guns and some ammunition. The residents of Cotija asked permission to recover Esparza's body for burial.

General Anselmo Figueroa, military commandant at Jalisco, rejected a petition by residents of the Los Altos district asking that he use his good offices to prevent the concentration in the large cities of all peaceful citizens. This concentration was ordered by General Amorin, secretary of war.

General Figueroa declared the concentration must be carried out but ordered protection to law-abiding citizens and amnesty to rebels willing to surrender.

HICKMAN DEFENSE CLOSES COURT CASE

ostatic copy of a letter written by Hickman to a fellow prisoner in the county jail after the sanity trial was well under way.

The letter was addressed to "Dale Bullock" and voiced Hickman's fear that the defense would be inadequate. "I intend to throw a fit in court," he wrote, and added that he would take a "crack" at Keyes. The missive closed with a request that the recipient tear it up.

Note Signed by Hickman.
The note was signed "William E. Hickman, alias the Fox." Below the signature was penned "Ha! Ha! Ha!"

In a postscript Hickman added: "You know I know I'm not insane, however. It was here that Walsh arose to announce that the defense rested. A few moments later, Keyes, taking the initiative, began the state's drive to break down the insanity contention."

After Sellers had testified, Keyes called Dr. Cecil Reynolds, Los Angeles brain surgeon and mental diseaser. The physician said he had examined Hickman four times since his return from Oregon where he was captured.

Without hesitation, the witness reported "sane" when the chief prosecutor asked him for his opinion of the youth's mentality. "Extremely sane," was his description of the mental structure of the defendant.

A decided sense of humor, Dr. Reynolds said, and the absence of any delusions proved to him that Hickman was mentally normal. Walsh's vigorous cross-examination was interrupted by adjournment.

STANDARD OIL CHIEF ARRESTED BY SENATE

with startling swiftness. As the shades of evening were enveloping the capitol, Senator Walsh appeared suddenly after an absence all day, and within a few minutes was able to obtain recess.

"I ask unanimous consent to submit a report from the committee on public lands," he said. "Is there objection?" the vice president inquired sharply. A dead silence was the answer.

"I send to the desk the report and ask the clerk to read it," said Walsh, who was sitting near Chairman Nye, of the committee, on the republican side, far from his accustomed place. The report was a four-page typed document, setting forth Senator's refusal to answer questions before the committee today and yesterday.

As the clerk read, most of the senators gave close attention, though one here was reading a newspaper and another there signing correspondence.

Walsh Remains Unperturbed.
Walsh held the floor. As the reading ended Senator Smoot, of Utah, was on his feet holding in his hand an amendment to the pending interior department appropriation bill. A page stood near by.

The Montanan was unperturbed. He asked that a typographical correction be made at once place in the report and that was read some delay.

"Now I send to the desk a resolution and ask that it be read," Senator Smoot said down as the clerk intoned the language of the measure directing the immediate arrest of Stewart.

"Now I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution," the Montanan said. "Is there objection?" again demanded Vice President Dawes. Again silence. "Without objection the resolution is agreed to," Dawes announced.

Senators Appear Stunned.
The senate sat as though stunned. There was a sudden rush of reporters from the press gallery to telephones and wires. That alone broke the silence and at its height one senator looked up and smilingly called for "order."

A prepared copy of the warrant was handed up to the vice president who

Fire Ravages Heart of Fall River

signed it. Then a clerk handed it to David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms, who immediately left the chamber and in the company of a deputy, John McGrain, left at once for the Willard hotel.

A group of newspapermen followed to the eighth floor and swarmed outside Stewart's suite. Barry and McGrain knocked and entered, one of them turning the key in the lock behind them.

Several minutes later, Barry emerged and announced that the Chicago oil operator had been "nice and agreeable" and had said that he would place himself in the sergeant-at-arms' hands and "make no trouble."

Takes Arrest Calmly.
"Colonel Stewart was calm and cool when we served the warrant," Barry added.

The Standard Oil magnate also was rather calm and cool during his second day on the witness stand, but at times he showed flares of temper and indignation. The physician said he had questioned him that he did not intend to "argue" with them.

At one point when Walsh asked why he hesitated in answering a question, the oil operator bluntly told the senator it was "none of your business, nor is any business of the senate."

Turning to the $8,000,000 profits the Continental standard to make out of the purchase of oil and its resale to companies controlled by the Standard of Indiana and the Sinclair Consolidated, he said he didn't care about that; what he was interested in was getting crude oil that he needed.

"Not that I have lost my respect for eight million dollars, senator," he added with a chuckle.

The real dramatic moment of the hearing came while the Standard of Indiana was under questioning by Senator Cutting, republican, New Mexico, who took the witness into the realm of assumption, saying that it might be assumed that he was the greatest of business men.

"Let's leave that out," Stewart said. "Then again we might assume that you are an imbecile, which none of us does assume," Cutting pursued.

"All right," the witness returned. "Then we might assume that you are committing perjury."

"I say that's an insult," the bulky oil operator shouted and it seemed that he would leave the stand. But he was drawn from his seat by the speaker from his chair toward the New Mexico senator. "I shall leave this room instantly if that is to go on. The senate of the United States has not authorized you to insult me."

Senator Walsh smoothed the waters by suggesting that the matter be withdrawn from the record, to which Senator Cutting readily agreed.

Later on the subject was adverted to again and Senator Cutting explained the middle of his statement that he had intended to add, "but the committee does not believe that."

"Oh, it's all right," Stewart said. "I have no feelings about it now."

Unable to Get Answer.
At intervals during the hearing, committee men to the oil operator the questions which he had refused to answer the day before and he persisted in his refusal to answer them, and some others. All of them had to do either with whether he had knowledge of the disposition of Liberty bonds by the Continental or whether he discussed subject with Sinclair.

The witness put his refusal on the same grounds as before; that the issue was in the courts and he would not discuss it before a jury and judge. After an hour on the stand, Stewart was accused from the witness chair, but directed to remain in Washington "at least until tomorrow."

The committee heard Beman G. Daves, chairman of the board of the Pure Oil company, and other oil men, none of whom could shed any light on the Continental transaction.

Meeting later in the day in executive session the committee lost little time in deciding to recommend to the senate the immediate arrest of Stewart.

Go to Prosecutor's Office.
Senator Walsh, Chairman Nye and several others repaired to the prosecutor's office in the senate office building, where the report, resolution and warrant were prepared for presentation to the senate.

The warrant was directed to the sergeant-at-arms, who was commanded forthwith to take into custody the body of Robert W. Stewart, who was found and to bring the said Robert W. Stewart before the bar of the senate, and to keep the said Robert W. Stewart in custody to await the further order of the senate.

This was the second time in recent years that the senate had issued a warrant to arrest and it had been served. The previous time was in the case of Mally S. Daugherty, a Washington Courthouse, Ohio, banker, who in 1924 refused to respond to a subpoena to appear before a special committee investigating the administration of the department of justice by his brother, Harry M. Daugherty.

In the case of Sinclair, the senate lands committee decided against recommending an arrest by the senate, but proposed instead that his case be referred to the District of Co-

The Dixie Safety Coach line company, which operates between Atlanta and Macon, also has just purchased several luxurious coaches to be used in its regular service. The Buick sedans are to be used for auxiliary and emergency purposes, Mr. Steinmetz stated.

EX-COMMUNICATION ORDER RUMORED IN RHODE ISLAND

Providence, R. I., February 3.—(AP) The Rhode Islander, a weekly newspaper published in this city, in a copyrighted article prints today what purports to be an excerpt from the text of a formal decision ordering the Rev. William A. Hickey, Roman Catholic bishop of Providence, to pronounce "major excommunication" against Elbridge J. Dignault and his associates in civil suits against the church.

More than 50 persons, including two priests, are understood to come under the papal ban. Dignault, a Woonsocket attorney, recently made a trip to Rome, where he was understood to have presented his case to the papal authorities and on his return early last month expressed confidence that his side had prevailed.

He announced, however, that he was planning a second trip to take up certain phases of the case.

FALL RIVER COUNTS SECOND HUGE LOSS

Fall River, Mass., February 3.—(AP) For the second time in twelve years a large part of the business center of this city tonight was a waste of smoking ruins, the result of a disastrous fire which swept the area surrounding city hall last night and early this morning.

Taking toll of the losses before the embers were yet cool, residents estimated the property damage variously from $7,000,000 to more than $15,000,000. Insurance investigators placed the loss even higher, in some cases at $25,000,000. The damage was even greater than that caused by the conflagration of February 16, 1916 which razed a similar section of the city.

Items in the loss were valued at $2,000,000. Twenty or more buildings destroyed and as many more damaged.

Approximately sixty stores and similar business establishments were wiped out or so badly damaged that it may be some time before they will operate at normal. Several thousands persons out of employment.

Officers assisting in the work of rehabilitation reached the city today from many sources, including the Red Cross. Due to the fact that the residential district was unscathed, there was little need for other than temporary aid to help in restoring business activities, and this came in the form of funds to enable the banks whose buildings were destroyed to resume operations.

No one was able tonight to predict when the most important business of the city would be able to resume. The cause of the fire remained unexplained tonight, although it was believed to have started in the boiler room of No. 2 mill of the Pocasset Manufacturing company. The flames were first seen there and then spread with lightning rapidity to two other mills of the plant and from them to nearby buildings.

COOLIDGE OFFERS ARMY, NAVY AID.

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—President Coolidge has sent a telegram to the mayor of Fall River, Mass., telling him that any army and navy facilities near these ruins be used in relief from the fire which raged in this city.

Palm Beach Beauty Cops Jam Traffic

West Palm Beach, Fla., February 3.—(AP)—Palm Beach found out today that calling beauties does not make very good traffic cops.

In a movie stunt, sponsored by a well-known news reel syndicate, nine pretty girls, dressed in one-piece bathing suits and wearing police caps and badges attempted to direct noonday traffic on a busy downtown street corner.

Thousands of pedestrians and motorists gathered at the intersection to witness the stunt, and, as a result, more traffic was directed to them by the Neptune cops.

After struggling desperately for several minutes to relieve the congestion the bathing beauties were replaced by regular traffic officers, who proceeded to clear the streets, which had been crowded for several blocks.

GENERAL MOTORS TO ERECT BUILDING
reached to discuss further details of the transaction.

The purpose in selecting the Spring and Pine streets site for the new General Motors subsidiary is to place it in the midst of other buildings leased by subsidiaries of the big Detroit company. The northeast corner of Baltimore block and Spring street, improved with a large specially-constructed building, was leased by the Massell company to the Buick Motor company factory branch, while a block to the south, at 425 Spring street, is the building occupied by the Oakland Auto Sales company. Atlanta is fast becoming an outstanding center of General Motors activities, with the large Chevrolet plant being constructed on the south side, the new office building soon to be erected and the numerous large subsidiary companies with district headquarters here.

The lease, made by the Massell Realty company with the construction involved, is one of the large real estate transactions of the year and discloses a notable trend in the local market coming upon the heels of the First Baptist church property sale.

A. A. C. and Georgia in Cage Clash Tonight on Club Court

Club Favored In Tilt With Red and Black

Game Marks Climax of Big Basketball Week for Local Fans.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
Atlanta's frenzied week of basketball draws to a close. It started Tuesday night when Tech High played the "Wonder Five" of Vienna. Then the Athletic club played the J. P. C. Wednesday. Last night the basketball citizenry of the town secured a glimpse of professional basketball as played by the New York Celtics.

Now comes the best of the week's bill. The University of Georgia and the Atlanta Athletic club play their widely heralded cage game tonight on the club court, beginning at 9 o'clock—please notice, 9 o'clock.

The club is as yet undefeated. Georgia comes in with a very small number of losses. Should be a good game. Probably will, and don't fall off your seat if the A. A. C. wins. On form, the team boys should win. There's a veteran team. After that, a reserve team. Both of them have alternated in previous games. And if you had seen the substitution made, you could hardly tell an entirely new team was on the floor.

Georgia Has Good Team.
But, if the club happens to lose, don't don the sackcloth and ashes. In the first place, basketball isn't worth it, and more to the point, Georgia has a good club, capable of beating any man's team in this part of the country without having the victory dubbed a fluke.

So there you are. Take your pick. We pick the Athletic club. We may be wrong in making such a selection, knowing basketball teams as we do. They change schedules on the slightest provocation, lose games when they should win, or win when they should lose, pass the ball too fast for you to know what's going on. But still, we pick the Athletic club.

Georgia has a point guard trio in Florence, Palmer and Drew. But the club has a great defensive pair in Joe McCrory and Cy Bell. They have an aggravating habit of taking the ball away from you just when you get down under the basket and get all set for a shot at the basket. And then, young McCrory will flip the ball in for points when occasion demands.

Good Guards.
Georgia, too, has a good pair of defensive men, Lautzenheiser and Martin. It used to be Palmer and Martin, but they shifted Palmer to a forward position in the Clemson game and he shot 18 points. That's doing right well.

The big thing in Georgia's attack, so we've been told, is the aptitude shown in large quantities by the Florence, Palmer, Drew trinity for ringing baskets, quickly and successfully. But if they would perform in their accustomed manner tonight, the young men first must pierce the club defense. And that Coach Bean has developed a defensive team no one will dispute.

So, if it makes any difference, we still pick the club to win. They should and we hope they do.

Preceding tonight's cage affair is a game between two teams of the Spalding county league. And that game is one right after the main game is over.

Packed House Sees Pro Five Defeat Rivals

New York Celtics Trim Rail-Lites Before 4,000 Fans, 50-26.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
Atlanta, about 4,000 of them, crowded into the auditorium Friday night confident of seeing basketball to which they were unaccustomed. They did.

The Celtics of New York, world's professional basketball champions, defeated the Rail-Lites of Chattanooga, by the score of 50 to 26. Which tells something about the game, but not very much. It tells nothing at all about the way these Celtics handle a basketball.

They like dribbling just about as much as a gold-digger likes to ride a street car. Five men hanging around full to keep a man from passing the ball wherever and whenever he so desires.

Points the Celtics scored at any given time. The process was simple. A man in the hole, the ball passed down bullet-like, a flip upwards. There was your goal. Sometimes, of course, it failed. The Celtics aren't perfect. But they are more nearly so than any team Atlanta has ever seen.

Perfect With Ball.
Passing to the left, right or behind them, there was a man ready to take the ball. Several times the green-jerseyed champions kept the ball moving in midcourt for three minutes or more. The process was something like this: Dehner, Celtic guard, played himself on the foul line, back to the goal. Someone, usually Banks, shot him the ball. He passed it back to Banks. Banks started it around a circle, criss-cross, back and forth, until the Rail-Lites and the entire assemblage became dizzy from trying to follow the ball in its wild meanderings.

The boys weren't selfish, however. The Rail-Lites frequently got hold of the ball, and considering the opposition, did well. In fact, we would make so bold to hold to the Rail-Lites would be a safe bet to beat almost any Atlanta team. Most of this was due to the plugging tactics of Bill Reid, lanky center, and Chuck Brandt, hustling forward. Between them they scored most of the points. The Rail-Lites added to the work of this pair a better than fair passing attack. Anxiousness caused them to miss several easy shots.

The game started off with the Celtics quickly ringing a basket, followed by a foul goal on the part of the Chattanoogaans.

Then the New Yorkers began scoring and always kept ahead by a safe margin. They never conceded to take the ball off the backboard or follow up a shot. Their excellent defense usually broke up a Rail-Lite goal rally.

Master of the Sphere.
The Celtics had a long, lanky center, Lopchick by name, who could do more things with a basketball than we ever thought possible. Holding it in one hand, he could flip it backwards, sideways or to the fore. He was aided by Banks, a stocky forward who covered the court quickly, easily and effectively. Banks tried numerous shots from midcourt but missed most of them. Holman, said to be the highest priced player of the team and the best guard in the world, lived up to his reputation and played a dazzling game.

It was Atlanta's first glimpse of professional basketball and Atlanta got a pleasing eyeful. Ask any of those who saw the game.

A preliminary game the New York Life Insurance company team nosed out the Southern Railway quint, 33 to 32, in a close, hard-fought game.

Packed House Sees Pro Five Defeat Rivals

New York Celtics Trim Rail-Lites Before 4,000 Fans, 50-26.

BY BEN COTHMAN.
Atlanta, about 4,000 of them, crowded into the auditorium Friday night confident of seeing basketball to which they were unaccustomed. They did.

The Celtics of New York, world's professional basketball champions, defeated the Rail-Lites of Chattanooga, by the score of 50 to 26. Which tells something about the game, but not very much. It tells nothing at all about the way these Celtics handle a basketball.

They like dribbling just about as much as a gold-digger likes to ride a street car. Five men hanging around full to keep a man from passing the ball wherever and whenever he so desires.

Points the Celtics scored at any given time. The process was simple. A man in the hole, the ball passed down bullet-like, a flip upwards. There was your goal. Sometimes, of course, it failed. The Celtics aren't perfect. But they are more nearly so than any team Atlanta has ever seen.

Perfect With Ball.
Passing to the left, right or behind them, there was a man ready to take the ball. Several times the green-jerseyed champions kept the ball moving in midcourt for three minutes or more. The process was something like this: Dehner, Celtic guard, played himself on the foul line, back to the goal. Someone, usually Banks, shot him the ball. He passed it back to Banks. Banks started it around a circle, criss-cross, back and forth, until the Rail-Lites and the entire assemblage became dizzy from trying to follow the ball in its wild meanderings.

The boys weren't selfish, however. The Rail-Lites frequently got hold of the ball, and considering the opposition, did well. In fact, we would make so bold to hold to the Rail-Lites would be a safe bet to beat almost any Atlanta team. Most of this was due to the plugging tactics of Bill Reid, lanky center, and Chuck Brandt, hustling forward. Between them they scored most of the points. The Rail-Lites added to the work of this pair a better than fair passing attack. Anxiousness caused them to miss several easy shots.

The game started off with the Celtics quickly ringing a basket, followed by a foul goal on the part of the Chattanoogaans.

Then the New Yorkers began scoring and always kept ahead by a safe margin. They never conceded to take the ball off the backboard or follow up a shot. Their excellent defense usually broke up a Rail-Lite goal rally.

Master of the Sphere.
The Celtics had a long, lanky center, Lopchick by name, who could do more things with a basketball than we ever thought possible. Holding it in one hand, he could flip it backwards, sideways or to the fore. He was aided by Banks, a stocky forward who covered the court quickly, easily and effectively. Banks tried numerous shots from midcourt but missed most of them. Holman, said to be the highest priced player of the team and the best guard in the world, lived up to his reputation and played a dazzling game.

It was Atlanta's first glimpse of professional basketball and Atlanta got a pleasing eyeful. Ask any of those who saw the game.

A preliminary game the New York Life Insurance company team nosed out the Southern Railway quint, 33 to 32, in a close, hard-fought game.

New Orleans Handicap Won By Justice F.

Jack Comes Home Second, Sea Rocket Third in $70,000 Turf Feature.

New Orleans, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Justice F., a little brown colt that has been the sensation of the winter racing season, added new laurels to his string today with an impressive victory in the classic New Orleans handicap over a field of 16 worthy opponents.

The victory was declared the most popular of a decade at the historic fair grounds. Sixth at the post position for the mile and one-sixteenth event, Justice F. began fast and soon had a forward position. At the quarter he was third, two lengths behind Ol' Susanna and half a length behind Laddie. At the half he was second, having disposed of Laddie, and at the three quarters he was leading, nearly two lengths ahead of Jack, R. B. McLean's entry.

Entering the stretch Jack closed in slightly to finish one and one-half lengths behind Justice F. Sea Rocket, owned by C. A. Coyle of New Orleans, finished third in a dazzling display of speed, passing six horses after entering the stretch to finish three lengths behind Jack. Ol' Susanna, owned by J. M. Camden, finished fourth.

An ovation from the crowd estimated at nearly 20,000 persons marked the appearance of Justice F. before the judges' stand where a wreath of orchids was thrown about his neck and a small barrel of carrots placed before him.

The ceremonies were climaxed with the presentation of the winner's check to William Daniel, of Chicago, owner of Justice F., by Mayor William Hale Thompson, of Chicago, who was here with a party of over 800 fellow townsmen for the handicap. Mayor Thompson congratulated Daniel for his ownership of the colt and Justice F. A. Pascuma for the masterful ride given the winner.

The race was worth $48,925 net to the winner, $11,280 for second, $5,840 for third and $1,880 to the fourth.

Pays $4.88 on $2.00.
Justice F. rewarded holders of $2 certificates with $4.88 to win, $3.42 to place and $2.78 to show.
Jack paid $2.94 to place and $2.80 to show. Sea Rocket paid $4.12 to show.

National League Cuts Down Passes

New York, February 3.—(AP)—Complimentary season passes for baseball games in the National league in the forthcoming championship will be reduced practically 50 per cent.

At the meeting of the club owners here today, a resolution was adopted limiting the number of "comps" to be issued by each club to 500. Heretofore many teams had a distribution of 1,000 or more free passes, it was stated.

The moguls also went on record for spick-and-span uniforms for players, passing a resolution for frequent dry cleaning.

Rosy Future for A. A. C.
At this writing we have it from no less an authority than Ben Jeffries Cothman that the basketball team of the Atlanta Athletic club will finish its season undefeated and therefore will hold undisputed claim to the city championship.

If Ben hadn't picked Tech to beat Georgia on December 3 last we might pass over his assertion as a bit of enthusiasm, but in the face of his past record as a sports prognosticator, we seriously consider his prediction in this case.

Looking back to the first of the season we find that this column quoted Coach Joe Bean as saying that he had the best basketball team of recent history at the club. Coach Joe evidently was right and a glance at the rest of the schedule would indicate that where Coach Joe was right at the beginning, Ben is right at this time.

To be sure, there is many a slip 'twixt the tip-off and the basket. The clubbers meet Georgia twice and Albany "V" once before the end of the season, and any one of these three games may end in disaster. Judging from comparative performance—which is usually dangerous in any sport—A. A. C. should be able to beat the Bulldogs both games, but there will be no easy victory. In Albany the team boys face a tough assignment. On their own floor the clubbers succeeded in beating their ancient foes by a safe margin of 15 points, but Albany at home is another matter entirely and the A. A. C. outfit will remember last year's experience at the South Georgia city. This tilt comes as the last game of the season for the A. A. C. on February 25 and it is entirely possible that the last step may be a misstep. Possibility is not probability, however.

While watching the A. A. C. plough through opponents with such regularity one is constrained to guess the reason or reasons for the same. A few reasons are apparent, but two of them are outstanding from the fact that they were not apparent as short a time ago as last season. These reasons are Joe McCrory and Cy Bell. Defensive guards are a dire necessity in basketball, and naturally their duty is largely defensive, but when a coach has a guard such as Joe McCrory, who can be shot on the offensive end of a combination with the assurance that justice will result, he has something to work with. Joe McCrory is such a guard. His eye for the hoop is gaining rapidly and steadily and at the same time he loses none of his efficiency on the defense. To paraphrase the famous expression, "A good offense is sometimes a good defense." And Joe McCrory saves the club many points by handling himself to avoid fouls. He is a strenuous worker under the basket, but you can count his personal fouls for this season on the fingers of your hands.

Cy Bell is the best center seen in this section in some years. His speed is astounding. You see him on the defense at one end of the court and the next thing you know he is on the offense at the other end of the court. In nearly every play you can see the towering form of Cy Bell.

Ridgeway is no disappointment. In fact, he is living up to his great reputation and Pat Stephens and D. Brewer are as good as ever.

In this great team of regulars Coach Joe Bean has strength, but therein lies only a part of his winning combination. He has a complete team of reserves who can and do take the floor to rest the regulars in every game. That means much to any team and is a greater advantage than the ability to put two or three subs in with the other combinations. The reserves at the club are not second rates. They all know the game and the club suffers but little when the first string takes the bench for a rest.

Yes, it looks now like Coach Joe will be able to end the season undefeated. That is our prediction at present.

LOMSKI GETS VERDICT OVER IS INTERRED OLD M'TIGUE AT SCRANTON

BY FRANK GETTY.
Madison Square Garden, N. Y., February 3.—(United News).—Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., leading light heavyweight contender from west, won a slow but sanguinary ten-round bout from old Mike M'Tigue, of Dublin, former champion of the division, before 11,926 spectators in Madison Square Garden.

Baffled by the crafty defense of the veteran, who held and held again throughout the bout, Lomski was unable to unleash his customary devastating attack and only once had old Mike in real distress.

In one of the preliminaries, Julian Moran, of St. Louis, 153-12, was pointed by Willie Levin, of Buffalo, 150-1-2, in a fast ten-round bout.

In a desperately fought eight-round semi-final, Maxie Rosenbloom, 150-1-2, won the judges' decision from K. O. Phil Kaplan, 159.

M'Tigue weighed 173-1-2; Lomski, 170-1-2.

Avondale Five Wins From Clarkston, 14-13

The fast Avondale Presbyterian quintet scored a decisive victory over the Clarkston High school five before a capacity crowd at the Clarkston auditorium, 14-13.

Ruth Johnson, the winners were high scorer for the night, while Nena Bates played admirable basketball for the losers.

Black Gold Gets Bouquet Of Justice F.

New Orleans, La., February 3.—(AP)—Black Gold, Kentucky Derby winner and idol of the New Orleans tracks, who broke a leg several weeks ago and had to be destroyed, was remembered in Justice F.'s triumph to victory in the New Orleans handicap today.

The great bouquet of cut flowers presented to Justice F. by Pascuma was tenderly placed by Justice F.'s jockey upon the grave of Black Gold at the Fair Grounds while beautiful feminine track sponsors in the grandstand usually inherit the roses silently approved.

ALIO-ING

The Air Waves.

BY WILL SMITH.

Not so many years ago you heard your first radio program. The wonder of it all could not be realized. You scarcely were able to believe that the voices and the musical instruments you heard were coming to you over waves of air instead of wires from a distant point.

Consider, then, your position today. The wonder of radio has not lessened. You accept it, yes, and you have come to regard it as a more or less commonplace of the present electrical age; but when you stop to dwell on the invisible distances your receiver covers, you ponder on this greatest marvel of our civilization.

Because you take your radio seriously, because night after night you gather from the air and bring into your home the artists of the world and boundless entertainment, you today are vitally concerned in the chaos of reception conditions pertaining in the United States. The ineffectual and blundering attempts at the federal radio commission to clear the air, to regulate the traffic and to give to the radio reception without interference is criminal.

Take Up Arms.
We do believe, and honestly that the only way to free the air from the noxious and, we suspect in many instances deliberate, interference from an aroused public to rise in its wrath and by sheer weight of public opinion win to independence.

Our views of the situation demand a ban on interference by high powered chain stations on the best wave lengths, the reduction of power by stations now giving interference, which do not transmit programs of national importance and interest. We cannot conceive of further reallocations to wave lengths which will aid in any possible way the clearing of the air.

We firmly believe that chain stations (there are three major chains in operation east of the Rockies) should be placed on three wave channels, clearing for about four of the best hours every night 20 or more wave lengths. We believe that the interests of the radio public will be best served by a wholesale reduction of power for those stations which are not serving the entire United States.

Fairness to All.
We know that chain stations are bringing us, night after night, a better averaged and balanced program than the independents. We want the independents and will always demand that they be given a most prominent place in the broadcast band. We know, however, that 500-watt stations, without interference, can be tuned in to 2,000 or more miles.

The suggestion has been made in letters to us that chain stations not be placed on a single wave channel, but that their power be reduced to eliminate the heterodyne whistle which they claim would result if tied into a single wave channel. The merit of this proposal seems assured of widespread approval.

Listeners, do not "stack arms," for the sake of your radio reception! Fix bayonets and go over the top! The zero hour is at hand and victory looms across no-man's land. It is a matter of time before we will have a major engagement. You are in the front lines and your greatest battle has already commenced! Victory will bring the clearing of the air. Defeat means a continuation of the present "impossible" radio reception conditions. The federal radio commission MUST regulate the traffic. Congress MUST see that it is regulated.

And here are some of the responses to the Dial Twister's articles attacking interference problems:
John W. Miller, Greenville, Ga.: "Everything you said meets with my approval. There are too many stations. You are perfectly justified in asking the federal radio commission to drop about half the stations, letting the traffic on the remaining stations be broadcast every other night."

L. J. Ashell, Jr., Atlanta: "I heartily endorse your drive to place the chain stations on a single channel. Go to it, we are all with you. I hope that every radio fan will write and help you in your appeal to the federal radio commission. Putting the chain stations on one wave length should relieve the situation. I like chain programs, but I don't like to have to listen to them."

M. V. Olson, Atlanta: "Wish to make special comment on your article in Monday morning's Constitution. I would like to have all of your suggestions presented to the radio commission through the district inspector. I would like to have the larger stations be freed from interference when not in the chains."
Lewis F. White, Atlanta: "Mr. White wrote to station WSM, Nashville, Tenn., asking the station to obtain copies of The Constitution in which the Dial Twister discussed chain programs and stations and the limiting of power to stations not of national importance, and read the views there expressed. A copy of the letter was sent to the Dial Twister. The writer expresses the hope that WSM will discontinue its chain connections and put on independent programs."

In answer to Mr. W. S. M., of interest to all owners of Radios 200, here is a formula for quickly finding the point on the dial at which any station should come in. Take the frequency in kilocycles, divide by 10 and subtract 53. For instance, KTN, San Francisco, is on a frequency of 710 kilocycles. Dividing by 10 leaves 71, and subtracting 53 leaves 18, the point on the dial where KTN should come in. We are indebted to Henry L.

WSB PROGRAMS

Reid, president of the Atlanta Radio club, for this handy formula.

Folk, tonight is Saturday night, and the opening big program will be Radio Corporation of America hour over the blue network, including WSAI, at 7 o'clock, orchestra, soloists, etc. "The Merry Widow" will be the Philco opera from 8 to 9 o'clock, with WSAI and the blue network, starring Jessica Dragonetti, Colin Doris, Doris and Steele Jamison.

Also, at 8 o'clock, will be "Farewell Fiddling" over the red chain, with WSAI or WGY as good stations to bring it in on.

Highlights must include:

And now we have used up so much space we won't have room for any reviews on Friday night's programs, enjoyable as several have been. But we believe the above matter is of interest to every radio listener. Do you agree? or do you want more of the night programs every morning?

Debutantes' Charity Ball Clears Nearly $800 for Charity

Nearly $800 was realized for the Georgia Children's home at the charity ball sponsored by members of the debutante club of 1927-28 given at the Biltmore hotel last Monday evening, the announcement being made at the Friday luncheon meeting of the club, at which Miss Gertrude Harris was hostess at her home on Oakdale road in Druid Hills. The "Famous Characters" ball rather climaxed the gaieties revolving around the group of charming debutantes presented to Atlanta society this season, and was regarded as a most ambitious undertaking for this youthful coterie, as the entire financial management and success of the entertainment rested upon their slender shoulders. Plans were formulated and worked upon for several weeks before the event was scheduled and creditably launched, with the debutantes elaborately costumed and acting as hostess and dressed to represent some famous person.

The worthy charity to which the funds accruing from the ball will be devoted is a home wherein Georgia children are cared for and held for adoption, and the work of the debutantes again demonstrates that girls of the present generation lead anything but a butterfly existence. Miss Mary Louise Brumby, president; Miss Virginia Courts, vice president; Miss Mary Harvey, secretary, and Miss Anne Spalding, treasurer, were assisted by Misses Mary Inna Pearce, Ann Kevsich, Catharine Boyd, Edna Raine, Mary Wellborn, Mary Matheson and Gertrude Harris.

PROPOSES BONDS TO MEET COSTS OF FLOOD CONTROL

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—Isaacson of bonds for payment of the entire cost of flood control of the Mississippi river and its tributaries, the federal government was advocated today by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, ranking minority member of the senate finance committee.

"I think we should follow the policy adopted in construction of the Panama canal," Senator Simmons said, "in commenting on flood relief legislation, and pay for the work by the issuance of long-term bonds. If flood control is to be made as permanent and complete as possible, there is no reason why the whole burden should be thrown on taxpayers of the next few years. Future generations will derive benefit from the work to be done now, and they should bear a share of the cost."

HOUSE BODY VOTES BOULDER DAM BILL

Washington, February 3.—(AP)—With an unusual proviso that it shall not be reported finally to the house before March 15, the Swag-Johnson bill for construction of a huge government dam in Boulder canyon on the Colorado river was approved today by the house irrigation committee. The vote was 13 to 4.

Similar in its features to the measure passed last year by the house, only to meet death in the bitter filibuster that tied the senate in a knot in the closing hours of the last session, the proposal, as approved by the committee, carried two amendments relating to power features and one covering the navigability of the river.

MURDER CASE HILL MURDER CASE CLOSED BY STATE

Ottawa, Ill., February 3.—(AP)—An aged gardener's shrill denial of guilt in connection with the death of his wealthy employer, Mrs. Eliza Hill, was still ringing in the ears of a crowded courtroom when the state rested its case against Harry Hill, accused of killing his mother.

The peak of the two weeks' fight on the part of the prosecution to prove its contention that the young son of a Streator oculist, Dr. H. C. Hill, shot his mother on the basement stairway of her home and buried her body in the cellar, was passed when Peter Busch stepped from the stand. As energetic as a man of 30, the tall, gray-haired 72-year-old gardener held up bravely under the hammering of cross-examination. He detailed again the story of how young Harry had hired him to arrange the freshly upturned ground in the Hill basement and how the youth had told him Mrs. Hill was away on a visit.

GEORGE MEASURE ON FARM TRAINING TO BE AIDED FEB. 9

Washington, February 3.—(Special)—Senator Walter F. George's vocational education bill is due for a hearing before the senate agriculture committee on February 9. Senator McNary, Oregon, announced today.

The George measure has received widespread endorsement from persons in practically every state in the union. It calls for an initial appropriation of $500,000. Each year thereafter for 11 years the appropriation is to exceed by $500,000 the appropriation of the year preceding. After the end of 11 years $6,000,000 is to be the annual appropriation. Half of this is to be expended for farm training. From the farm half each state is to receive a sum to be determined by the state's portion of the total farm population of the nation. The other half is to be distributed among the states for home economics improvements, each state to receive a sum to be determined by its proportionate population as compared to the total population of the nation.

LINDBERGH BREAKS SILENCE ON FLYING

San Juan, Porto Rico, February 3.—(AP)—The Porto Rican legislature, paying a glowing tribute to the brilliant achievements of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, today took the opportunity to entrust to him "a message from the people of Porto Rico to the people of the United States," making a plea for "freedom."

The message was entrusted to the American air hero at a special session of the legislature which bestowed a medal of honor upon him. The colonel thanked the legislature for its cordial welcome, but made no reference to the message. Instead, he made an address on commercial aviation, saying that it would be easy to link the island of Porto Rico and the United States by air and that figuratively it would be done tomorrow.

WEARY AFTER RECEPTION

Somewhat weary after last night's receptions which kept him up late, Colonel Lindbergh slept late this morning and it was not until 10 o'clock that he began a tour of the city before his visit to the legislature.

Among the places which the colonel visited were the fort of San Cristobal, the new capitol building, the school of tropical medicine, the high school and the university. Everywhere he was greeted with enthusiasm.

Tomorrow the American good-will flier against ill take up his tour which is steadily carrying him closer to the Pan-American conference at Havana.

The hop will be to Santo Domingo, just 250 miles across the Mona Passage to the Dominican republic. Here he will remain until February 6, when he will fly to Haiti and then on February 8 to Havana.

Chicago, February 3.—(AP)—The state's investigation of the operation of beautification which caused Miss Sadie Holland, 30, stenographer, to lose both of her legs, was concluded today, as the young woman continued to fight grimly against death from infection.

John W. Follmer, chief investigator for the department of registration and education, closed the hearing after Miss Elsie Holgren, head nurse in the hospital in which the original operation was performed, testified that Dr. S. D. Zaph and not Dr. Henry J. Schresson, died the actual cutting through the bones of the girl's legs.

The bodies were later identified as Mr. and Mrs. John A. Barry, of Sonoma, Va.

Aching heads, painful muscles, nervousness, bleached cheeks—these are just little things that constipation brings on. In the end, it causes more than forty dreadful diseases.

Begin now combating constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it. More—to prevent it. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases.

CHAMBERLIN OFF ON NEW HOP TODAY

Richmond, Va., February 3.—(AP)—At daybreak tomorrow morning, a big Martin-Bellanca plane is scheduled to rise from Richard E. Byrd airport here and begin a flight which Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Q. Williams, its pilots, hope will not be ended until a new world's endurance record is established for airplane flying.

Stored aboard will be a sufficient supply of gasoline, oil, water and food for a flight of 60 hours. To establish a new world's record, the fliers will have to keep their plane in the air for 53 hours, 22 minutes and 11 seconds. This is exactly one hour more than Cornelius Eklund and Johann Rastitz flew without a landing in a Junkers J-331, monoplane on August 5, 1927, in Germany.

PILOTS HOLD CONFERENCE

Chamberlin, who arrived in Richmond today from New York, and Williams both expressed confidence tonight that they will be able to shatter the present record.

The day's silver and yellow monoplane, owned by A. B. Martin, financial backer of the flight, will begin to take on fuel at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning. Chamberlin announced tonight. The take-off is expected a few hours later.

Warm weather today helped to get the airplane in shape for the flight and the pilots expressed hope that the sun would be hot all day tomorrow.

WITH THE EXCEPTION OF FUELING ALL PREPARATIONS FOR THE FLIGHT HAVE BEEN COMPLETED

Chamberlin went to bed early tonight with the expectation of being on the flying field at 3 o'clock in the morning.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is a guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

SYNOPSIS.

Esther Rowe, a young nurse, having accompanied an invalid from the United States to Cannes on the Riviera, is about to return to New York when she sees an advertisement in the paper for a nurse and doctor's assistant and she decides to apply for the job in order to spend a little time in Cannes.

While waiting for an answer to her application to Dr. Sartorius, Esther treats herself to tea at the fashionable Restaurant des Ambassadeurs. She becomes interested in the conversation of a beautiful French woman and her escort, an Englishman, who sit at the next table. On returning to her hotel Esther finds a note from the doctor asking her to report in the morning. She finds the doctor devotes more time to experiment than to patients.

INSTALLMENT VI.

LADY CLIFFORD.

Late one afternoon a patient arrived who had no appointment. Jacques admitted her, went up to tell the doctor, who had thought consultations over for the day, then returning spoke to Esther in a salle a manger.

"It is Lady Clifford," he whispered. "It is the second time now she comes like this. Always the doctor he go to her."

Esther knew the name, her book had told her that the doctor paid regular visits to a Lady Clifford. She turned up the visits for the next day. Yes, there it was, Thursday, Lady Clifford, 11:30.

She heard the doctor's heavy step on the stairs, so she hastily replaced the crisp white coat she had removed a moment ago and repaired to the salon. A slender woman was standing at the window looking out and tapping her foot with nervous impatience. She was smartly dressed in black, with a magnificent silver fox about her shoulders.

"Will you come this way, please?" said Esther. "The doctor will see you."

The woman turned suddenly, and Esther received a shock of surprise. It was the blond woman of the Restaurant des Ambassadeurs. As she was French it had never occurred to Esther to connect her with the unknown Lady Clifford. For a moment she felt self-conscious, afraid lest the beautiful patient should recognize her. But no, there was no need for alarm, the French woman passed her with a brief, inquiring glance. Probably on that former occasion she had never noticed Esther at all, or if she did the nurse's uniform was sufficient to alter the other completely. Who was this exquisite creature, French but with an English name? All Esther's curiosity returned in full force.

Dr. Sartorius stood, heavy and uncompromising, beside the flat mahogany desk. He scarcely took the step forward which courtesy demanded. Slightly his manners were the least ingratiating Esther had ever known in a professional man.

"Give me, doctor, for coming like this," the patient began impudently. "But tomorrow morning I find I cannot be at home, and I do late to miss my picture?"

"Very well, you can have it now," said Esther, with a smile. "I will bring it to you."

That was his grudging response to an appeal full of winning charm. Women and their fascination and evidently no part in his life.

"Ah, that is good of you! It puts strength into me—and I have need of all my strength," she paused to moisten her lips—"I wish also to have a word with you again about my husband."

"She had stripped off her gloves and was clapping and unclapping her hands."

"Yes, I don't feel quite so satisfied about him as I did. I want to ask some questions."

While she was speaking the doctor, having signed to Esther to remain, had opened a drawer and was taking out several small bottles which he examined one after the other.

"Miss Rowe," he said, "All these are empty. On the top shelf in the oak cupboard in the laboratory you will find a full one. Bring it to me, please."

He extended an empty bottle for her to see the label.

"Yes, doctor, I won't be a minute," Esther replied, and hastened out, closing the door behind her.

She ran up the two flights of stairs without stopping to take breath, and looked into the Norman armor, but neither on the top shelf nor any of the others could she find what she wanted. She went over the contents of the cupboard a second time to make sure, examining the labels of various drugs, chemicals, serums, cultures. What was this new bottle? Tetanus—horrible! She gave a slight shudder, realizing that the stuff in that bottle was enough to give lockjaw to half the inhabitants in Cannes. No, the doctor was mistaken, the mixture she sought was not here. Rather more slowly than she had come up, she retraced her steps to the bottom floor. At the last landing she stopped, listening acutely.

"Non, non, je ne peux pas, je ne peux pas le faire."

It was the Frenchwoman's voice, high pitched, emotional, the protest wrung from her as if in agony. What was she saying? A rapid stream of French followed. Esther could not catch a word of it, then at the end a phrase or two that was intelligible.

"Je vous jure, je mourrais—je mourrais."

The doctor's voice cut in upon her, dominating, brutal even, a tone that caused Esther to gasp and clutch the stair rail.

"Stop that! Stop that nonsense! Are you an utter fool?"

It was like bidding a dog to lie down. Silence followed, then a stifled sob.

Esther's first thought was, why does she stand being talked to like that? I wouldn't, not for a moment.

It was as if all his latent contempt for the opposite sex was concentrated into that one vitriolic burst. Well—Some physicians, she knew, practiced with hyper-emotional subjects the method of "treating them rough." This was probably Sartorius' idea. Certainly, she was ready to believe that Lady Clifford was of the uncontrolled, hysterical type, who easily gave way to her feelings. Perhaps the doctor had found this the best way of dealing with her. As she still paused hesitating to enter the room the doctor spoke again.

"Sit down and try to behave like a reasonable woman. Remember all I have told you. Why should you upset yourself like this?"

There was no audible reply. Esther retreated a few steps, then descended with a brisk step and opened the door.

She observed Lady Clifford sitting with a schizoid mien on the edge of a stiff Francois premier chair, biting her under lip and pulling a small lace edged handkerchief between her fingers. The doctor, with an immovable face was filling a hypodermic syringe from a small phial.

"I'm sorry, doctor but there is no more of that mixture," Esther began when he interrupted her.

"No, no, it's all right, nurse, I found I had some here after all. Now if you will assist Lady Clifford with her dress—"

"I suppose you give it in the night?"

"In the night."

Lady Clifford had crossed to the hard couch by the window, and was now seated, leaning up against the cushions at the end, cautiously, so as not to disarrange her hat. Esther drew up the narrow skirt exposing slender legs encased in gossamer stockings and six inches or so of a diaphanous undergarment, pink georgette, delicate as a cobweb and scented like the rest of its owner with an indefinable and slightly cloying perfume. On the white skin just below the hip there showed startling a blue-black line, the size of a French pipe—the visible mark of repeated injections. Esther sponged a fresh spot and the doctor shot in the long needle with a casual indifference. Esther watched curiously the sort of rapturous twist of the patient's body, the convulsive grip of her hands on the rim of the couch.

Hands! For the first time Esther noticed them. What was it about them that was different, that filled her with a mixture of fascination and repugnance? They were soft, milky white, marvelously manicured, each nail a plaque of carmine enamel. Yet there was something wrong, all most like a deformity. Of course it was the shortness of the fingers, or rather of the first joint, a general look of stumpyness, the nails trained to long points to hide the deficiency. The thumbs in particular—how squat, how stunted! They appeared to have only two joints instead of three. Somehow they gave her a feeling akin to nausea. She sponged the puncture with iodine, smoothed down the skirt, cleaned and replaced the needle in its case, and all the time she was thinking of those oddly repulsive hands. Repulsive to her, that is, she knew that not many people would have noticed them specially.
